

the FOR A NEW AWAKENING IN THE 21st CENTURY BLACKSHIRT

ISSUE ELEVEN

Monday night saw once again an act of terror upon our own country, an attack that has hit us hard but yet we seem to be doing nothing. It seems that after every attack we light candles hold a vigil give poems and stand together and then we all go quietly back to normal doing nothing to stop these things from happening. Like many of you I want action, I need action and not out of any racist belief or hatred but because we need action to stop these evil dogs from doing what they do. We should have troops out on the streets, we should have police carrying guns but you can bet that after a week or two unless something horrible happens again our nation will slip back in to normality once again and right this off as just another single, extremist with views that no one else has. This has to change. I want to see them dragged out their houses and places of worship, I want to see those who sympathise or support these dogs dragged out of their homes and made to stand accountable for their crimes.

The pretence that is shown in and that the moderate Muslims condemn these attacks, I'm sure there are individual Muslims who are peaceful and cherry pick the verses in the Quran which to follow but it must be understood that Islam as a whole is intolerant and violent and encourages people to do what is being done today. We have to face the facts that we are at war with Islam because our way of life and our democratic system with all its faults stands in the way of its total submission and subjugation of our people. I like the following words that were stated yesterday, I have tried to be as accurate as I can with the quote but I think its essence is what is most important to us today.

To those who carry out these horrible attacks we are weak we have no backbone and this is something that has got to change. We need to ask ourselves when will it end? I am like you sick to the back teeth of being told that these so called men are extremists

"Try as they might, the terrorist dogs couldn't snuff out all the light in the world on Monday night and its this light that leads the way forward. Western society faces the reality of two futures do we cower to a zealously religious ideology that demands subjugation without compromise an ideology that thinks nothing of murdering innocent people an ideology that demands we perform ridiculous Olympic feats of denial and deny our own well-being? Or do we drop all pretence leave aside political correctness and refuse to be enslaved by the indulgence of our own misplaced compassion. Some hearts and minds can be changed but these dogs are beyond the reaches of love, reason or logic there is no diplomacy with anyone who celebrates tearing apart anyone with ball bearings, nails and screws. Such people must be exterminated from the face of the earth in such a fashion that people a millennia later will tell stories about the brutality that awaits such dogs. A God that calls for the murder of innocent people is a weak and impotent God. Make these dogs feel the wrath of the west. We didn't start this war but we should and can end it.

A country a society that can not protect its children is a doomed country . Our intelligence agencies tell us that over 3500 potential terrorists 400 ISIS fighters have reported back to our country from Syria this year alone. The Stockholm terrorist attack was an Asylum seeker from Uzbekistan the attempted attack in Austria this year was carried out by a migrant the Antwerp attack in March was carried out by a Tunisian migrant and all of the attacks have all been carried out by Muslim men whether home grown or here with or without

, and Belgian terrorist we e allowed to travel and escape freely between European nations due to the E.U's policy of open borders. Can anyone blame us for wanting out of such a disastrous experiment?
This year terror attacks have been carried out every nine or so days. To people who think it is bigoted and racist to talk about securing our borders say take you locks off your doors remove the fences around your gardens and your houses remove the alarm stickers off your doors and windows remove the alarms and locks on your cars, don't be racist hypocritical bigots with an obsession on keeping people out. For those that have placed the popularity of terror groups above and ahead of the security of your own country, look at the faces of those killed on Monday night,
look at the youngest Safi Rose Roussos and ask yourself if it was all worth it.
Little kids now live in fear, we all live in fear is it worth it, was it all worth it? Where are all the moderates of Islam, why do always here from so few of them where are you all? Why are we so afraid to ask these questions are there enough moderates to make a change are there enough so called moderate Muslims who condemn these attacks. Its time we stood up and took action its time we stood up to terrorism and those that commit its time we stood up to political correctness and all the harm it is doing to our country. Its time we stopped greeting a violent sexist ideology as if it has any place in our modern way of life.

Unless we want our children to take up a fight that we seem to lack the courage to finish, take action now, speak out stand tall and fight for your people and your country I because you'd better believe the terrorists are fighting for it.

Although not all of this monologue is mine and mine alone I think it states what we are all thinking deep down. We need to take action, we need to stand tall we need to fight. We need a leader who will put our country first above the wills of modern political correctness we need a leader who places Britain first. The sad truth is we want get that leader, we haven't got that leader and we will continue to pander to the Muslims and their wicked warped religion until its all lost. We know that there are many parts of our country that are no go areas that we can not and do not dare to go into at night in fear of our lives, we know that there are people who wish to do us harm who see us a easy prey who see our children as easy targets. We know that many of our young girls have been treated unbelievably by these veil dogs, yet we do nothing. We continue as a nation to do nothing and events like those that happened on Monday night will happen again and more frequently unless we as its to late it will have done its single person who has a people get up off our knees job. This war is about Islam, strapped or thought about and stand a fight. As a movement we need to do that think we have yet woken up same, we need to stand up to to the realisation of what these vile, evil dogs and their religion and let them know that we are still in the fight.

This problem will not be solved overnight but it can be solved if we have the courage to solve it. I fear that our political elites do not want to face this problem for fear of losing their place in society. I fear that we as a people do not face the fight because of the tags and labels we will be given. I have faced this myself, I have worried about my family and what people will say about me if I stand up for what I know is right. I have been found wanting in many areas of my love for this country but I know that unless I fight my children will condemn me for not doing so when our society falls and it is in the sand and thinking that real danger of doing so unless somehow or another by we face this fight.

I believe that all those people who have been killed have been killed for no other reason than believing in a fairytale, something that does not exist. They went about their lives believing that our society was safe and that we mattered to those in power. I am saddened beyond words that innocent lives have been taken again because of that lie, a lie that has been told time and time again. If this horrible act does nothing more than wake us up before it is a war against evil. I don't think we have yet woken up against people who are not fighting a war the way we fights a war. We as a nation have rules of engagement in fight, because they hate our lifestyle, because they hate our freedoms, because of the things that we are. They fight because they believe their God commands them to fight us because of who we are. An Islamist is living in the third century. An Islamist believes that they can take your children and use them as slaves, use them as sexual objects, use Christian children for their organs. There's a lot of news that you don't get. And there's a lot of news that frankly none of us want to hear. But by poking our head in the sand and thinking that this is going to be solved, that is a mistake. It is foolish and will get us all killed. We have to understand that in their twisted ideology, they believe that Allah gives them the right to slaughter the infidel so don't tell me this is not a fight against Islam or the Muslim people, it is a very real fight. The truth is, this has everything to do with Islam. The truth is that every Muslim, every Islamist is a potential terrorist. Every single person who has strapped or thought about themselves or a child or blowing someone up, or who silently stands by and says, "Well, they kind of deserved it," that is an Islamist. Its time to stand up, its time to fight, its time to ask ourselves is this the future we want for ourselves and our families? Is this the country we want? Is this how we want to remember those that have been killed? Action needs to be taken. The time for vigils is over. The time for candle lighting is passed, its time we dragged these people out of their homes and placed of worship and made them pay for what they have done. I hope we act before its too late. If there is anything I want to see this movement do its stand up to Islam and the Muslim world because we might very well be the only movement that does so, the only movement that stands up for our children and our culture, the only movement that says what others do not want to say and do what other do not want to do. If we are to be the only ones then let us stand firm and fast to that conclusion and be as our father of old, bold and courageous in the face of evil.

THE PERTH AGREEMENT

The call to build a real peoples army has resulted in a planned 'unity' meeting taking place in Scotland. Representatives from RWR, BNP, SDL, SD and BM have been invited to a meeting with NBU leader Gary Raikes to discuss working together under the flash and circle of British fascism. The outcome of these talks in Scotland will pave the way for similar meetings across the UK. This is the first step in removing the dead hand of the old guard that is preventing progress and change in the movement. Patriots demand unity, it is up to us all to deliver it or get out of the way of those that will. A full report will be in the next issue of The Blackshirt.

Hate speech is not the same as speaking the truth. The truth can make people uncomfortable and, if it's something that people don't want to hear, it can lose you friends, cause members of your family to turn away from you and even get you into trouble with the law. The thing is though, in spite of all that, it's no less true. Political Islam is not compatible with western values. It is simply the truth. It runs counter to every value we hold as important in our society. We cannot accommodate it any more. That is the truth. This month one Muslim blew 22 people to bits, one was 8 years old. He sent iron nails through her little body in the name of his religion. Political Islam is not compatible with western values. That is the truth. And of course we have our political and community leaders come out and say we must all carry on as usual and that we won't be broken by this. But that's an easy thing to say when you have a 24 hour security detail and you live in some leafy upper middle class area or a gated community somewhere. For the rest of us we have to carry on despite the facts that 48% of British Muslims would not report a person linked to terror, one third of young British Muslims support killing for Islam, one third of all British Muslims believe that apostates should be killed and 61% of all British Muslims believe in the death penalty for homosexuals. Political Islam is not compatible with western values. This is the truth.

HAVE YOUR SAY

Dear editor

Mosley turned his back on parliamentary democracy as a rejection of the type of men it produced. Party politics drained any fight or true idealism from those who entered the corridors of Westminster. They became corrupted immediately they engaged in the rules and rituals of a chamber full to the brim with windbags, sycophants and those hesitant to act against the system.

In his book, Tomorrow We Live, he wrote, "Many a good revolutionary has arrived at Westminster roaring like a lion, only a few months later to be cooing as the tame dove of his opponent. The bar, the smoking room, the lobby, the dinner tables of his

atmosphere of the best club in the country, very quickly rob a people's champion of his vitality and fighting power".

The BUF entered electoral politics in London in 1937, fighting six London County Council seats, where they averaged 19% of the vote. This was particularly impressive because only householders were entitled to vote in the LCC elections, which ruled out the BUF's many younger supporters. An even better result was the victory of a British Union candidate in the heart of rural Suffolk. Emphasising the BUF's plans to revive agriculture, Ronald Creasey was elected to Eye District Council.

Mosley's pre-war and post-war movements did win a few elections to public office:

Captain Bentinck-Budd elected to Worthing Council in 1934 as a BUF councillor. (He wore his full Blackshirt uniform to council meetings).

Commander Charles Hudson elected to Bognor Regis Council in the 1930s as a BUF councillor.

Sydney Crossland elected as a BUF councillor in Sussex during the 1930s.

Ronald Creasy elected to Eye Borough Council, Suffolk as a F.B. Price-Heywood elected to Grasmere Council, Cumbria in 1953 for Mosley's Union Movement.

Robert Saunders of UM elected to Dorset County Council post-war. (He was also a prominent National Farmers' Union official).

Harold Soref a member of British Union elected as Conservative Member of Parliament for Ormskirk in 1970. (He was also a leading member of the right-wing, anti-immigration Conservative Monday Club. Mosley encouraged Fascist infiltration of the Conservative Party).

Major Jocelyn Lucas a BUF member in 1935, elected as Conservative MP for Portsmouth South in 1939.

SPECIAL FEATURE WORDS FROM GRANVILLE

Derek Dooley was no match for big Norman!

Having read the interesting article about Derby County in the 1950s and thereabouts, it reminded me of watching the Rams weird defeat at home 6-1 to Boston United but more so the mention your writer made of Norman Nielsen, Derby's big South African centre half.

Not long after the end of the war, when I was still at Nether Heage County Primary School and about 10 year old, I went up to Sheffield on a train from Ambergate Station with three friends.

I only remember the name of one, Keith Yarnell. Keith lived near me and was about a year older and already at grammar school. I believe.

Yes, in those days, lads as old as that could travel about quite freely, not like today.

We found our way to Hillsborough to watch the Rams against Wednesday and we four stood amongst crowds of Wednesday fans who, despite seeing us in our black and white scarves, passed us down to the front so we could see better.

They were teasing us, telling us that their centre forward was a very big man who would scare our half backs to death.

We kept quiet till the teams came out and, of course, Norman Nielsen towered above Derek Dooley.

It was all good natured banter. I forget the result but I know Derek Dooley suffered a serious injury to his leg later in his career.

They were innocent times.

If I was a member of any club, say a golf club or a miners' welfare, which I am not, and decided to leave I would go to whoever the right person was and say something along the lines of; I am leaving today and you will get no more subs and your agreements and ruls will no longer be accepted by me, you can like it or lump it.

This should have been the way for Theresa May to approach the European Union. Most of us who voted to leave, and those like me who campaigned and voted for leaving the European Union, were mostly bothered about England being swamped by immigrants causing a housing shortage, a crisis in the hospitals and wages being kept low. Now it seems that Prime Minister May is dragging her feet on this. Remember companies in the EU need to keep trading with us and will not want to throw away our markets.

We can sort out trading deals with countries such as the USA, Brazil, India and all the Commonwealth nations and the rest of Europe as well as Russia. One further point the Office for National Statistics recently reported that already 390,000 EU nationals from 16-year-olds to 64-year-old are now out-of-work and can claim tax-payer funded handouts such as job seekers' allowance, child benefit, child tax credits or sickness benefits.

Some days I feel really lucky to live in this part of the Amber Valley in Derbyshire. A couple of Sundays ago on my usual walk to Crown Inn here on Sleetmoor I walked through my own garden with bluebells and white and pink ones out, apple blossom on the tree my grandson, Ciarán, grew from a core years since, magnolia still in bloom. Down Azalea Avenue through our little estate and up the jinnell on to Sleetmoor Lane. Then past the fields and Sleetmoor Wood and the houses with more flowers and trees.

Stopped two or three times to chat to folks I know working on their gardens, which helps me as my COPD, relatively mild though it is welcomes a break in the half mile walk. I reached the pub ordered my pint of mild and awaited the others getting there. Once again Maz missed our little Sunday dinner time gathering, four times then. Still Mick Riley and Frank came.

On the Wednesday dinner time I was in Crown again and mentioned to Dave Webster that we had not seen our friend Maz for a month. Dave said something along the lines of Yes Gran it's a bit odd that Maz [who is only in his 40s] would rather spend his Sundays with a very pretty, younger woman out in his Alfa Romeo than he would sit in Crown supping ale with three or four old blokes. Most odd! Well when I think about it hearing us all talking about Brexit, immigration and who we'd deport including many born here; then Mick Riley and me on about if our team, Mansfield Town [Stags], would get in the League Two play off's [they didn't] or even Frank and me talking about when we, over 50 year since, lived and worked in Deutschschweiz trying to speak Baseldytsch I suppose I can understand Maz rather not coming to Crown!

Well done Maz but you could nip in every now and then!

Wesan ge hale,

England must be the laughing stock of the world, especially amongst foreigners coming to live here, if not to work here too.

The recent case of the two Bulgarian women found guilty of stealing from a 76-year-old woman in Derby is a case in point, "Pickpockets to be deported unless they stop stealing" [D/T March 16th].

After following the woman into Iceland they took the purse from her handbag and kept £40 of her money.

One of the Bulgarians had three previous convictions for thieving from a person and the other one had been cautioned for a similar offence.

They are obviously not working as one of them said she needed the money for food. Believe it or not they were both on bail at the time - for trying to steal a purse from an old person in the north of England.

What did the judge decide? He gave them a 12-month prison sentence, suspended for two years, 20 days rehabilitation activity and 120 hours of unpaid work!

Very little for frightening the old lady so much that she cannot sleep and has nightmares when she does! Oh, and the judge said that if they do not behave they would be deported.

Surely they should have been imprisoned as a deterrent for others and then sent back to Bulgaria once their sentence was served.

Roll on the day when we can really control our borders and keep such lowlifes as these out.

Welcome to the New European Reconquista (NER).

We are a group consisting of European traditionalists and nationalists. We have created this group to enlighten as many people as we can about what is going on in Europe. We stand for unity between the peoples of Europe, from north to south, and from east to west. Our goal is to ensure our survival, which is only possible if we work together on achieving these goals, thus it is of utmost importance to seek a common ground and understanding between us as Europeans. We cannot afford to fight between each other any more.

We reject modernity, liberalism, communism, American imperialism, Zionism, so called democracy, capitalism and globalism. In fact, we stand for the exact opposite of these dangerous values. We stand for tradition, order, family, folk and faith and a multi-polar world, which means that we acknowledge the existence of different kinds of civilisations and we do not want any of these civilisations to submit to a global one. The key to fighting against the end-goal of a global government, is to make sure unique civilisations with their own particular histories and way of life keep existing.

The terms left and right-wing have become useless and are actually distracting us. How many right-wingers these days are nothing more than false opposition, only there to give us hope, to keep controlling us instead of letting us rise in the revolutionary current. How many so called 'right-wing nationalists' are actually globalists and supporters of Israel? How many so called 'right-wing parties' want to integrate non-Europeans into our countries instead of liberating our countries from them? Don't be fooled by such parties and people, you know very well that integration means mixing with us which will result in our replacement. We must resist! It is time to speak up, to wake up from this comatose state of being and to face the truth. Left-right politics are only relevant in a democracy, something that we absolutely must transcend, because party politics are merely banter and no action. Party politics and democracy (within the left-right spectrum) are designed to keep us divided. A nation divided is a nation shall we be cast into the dark, no more shall we submit to their lies. We shall revolt make unique civilisations against the modern world!

This page is a work in progress and we will focus ourselves on a variety of topics, ranging from current events and politics, to fascist theories/ideologies, to philosophy and social commentary, to European cultures and customs, and last but not least, historical events and characters.

Europe lives and marches on!

LEADERS MESSAGE

We are a fighting race, and it is a good thing we are, because empires are not built by weak minded liberal pacifists. But the political elite refuse to recognise the fact, and hide it behind a mask of lies and deceit. They feed the British lion on a diet of milk, babies food and watered bread. The unfortunate beast is asked to forget his own epic story and snarl condemnation, like a senile, weak-minded old man, at the acts of other less deadly creatures of the jungle.

But somewhere in the back of his mind, among all the liberal propaganda something is beginning to stir. He hears Drakes drum, throbbing its harsh awakening roll in his ears. The lion yawns, stretches, raises one mighty paw to strike the political elite into the dust...and off to rule his heritage once more as it should be ruled.

The very thought sends the democratic lilies grey with terror. "Brutality", they cry, "The lights are going out all over Europe once again". But we know another grim prophecy, that every previous civilisation has grown sick inside and has been overwhelmed by barbarian hordes in a sea of blood and plunder.

NBU believe that the fate which struck down all others can be avoided only by resolute action, to clean civilisation from the inside. Healthy cultures do not fall. Civilisation must retain its virility if it is to live; if it grows yet it would not be true to say weak and degenerate then it has always been overwhelmed under a flood of barbarian invasion which, after centuries of chaos revitalises it and a civilisation arises where the old one died. Fascism, with its intolerance of decay and ill health will give the necessary injection of virility and health which shall prevent the death of the civilisation of the west.

Join us today and help spread the British Fascist message of hope to our embattled people, rally around the 'Flash and Circle' flag of the New British Union and become part of the cure, let 'people not politicians' be your battle cry!

Gary Raikes

Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesars

A crisis is at hand in the religious life of Britain and other European countries, which will probably result in a religious revolution of far greater importance than the upheaval of the sixteenth century.

To the interested observer it must be evident that the majority of people are becoming indifferent to the leadership of the Christian churches, or in many cases actively hostile to them, and yet it would not be true to say that they are drifting towards irreligious positions. The greatest disaster that could happen to this country would be a permanent antagonism between the State and the Christian religion, and it is the fear of that eventuality that is keeping hundreds of devout people from sharing in the political ideas of British Fascism. They are suspicious of any movement that emphasises the sovereignty of

Join us today and help spread the British Fascist message of hope to our embattled people, rally around the 'Flash and Circle' flag of the New British Union and become part of the cure, let 'people not politicians' be your battle cry!

In a Fascist State should such a conflict arise it would be the Church's fault or rather the fault of the Ecclesiastical Authorities. Fascism is in fact based upon one of the direct commands of Jesus Christ; render unto Caesar the things that are Caesars. This admonition clearly indicates that Christ allowed and acknowledged the earthly authority of those to whom he permits the government of his peoples in this world. He became as the Bible says, 'obedient unto the law for man'. After all, Christianity should teach good and loyal service to the earthly State as the best means of training the soul for good and loyal service to the spiritual kingdom of the King of Kings.

When a prejudiced clergy condemn Fascism in any form they are damning one of the most powerful forces, which could support the fundamental principles of true religion. Fascism is not out to render to Caesar the things that are Gods. It minds its own business, which is the good government of the earthly State, for the corporate welfare of the community.

The Spiritual leaders should do the same in their own great sphere. The Church must mind her own business, which is a spiritual or un-earthly work for the welfare of souls. Church and State wars are nearly always unnecessary, a fact which makes them doubly tragic. There is nothing at all to prevent the most ardent Fascist who puts 'Britain First' politically from applying the same principle to his religion and putting 'God First' ethically.

One would think that the devoutly religious person would see the futility of multiculturalism. The nations of the world do not keep step in the march of civilisations progress; such a state of harmony is not likely to obtain in this world except through the influence of religion.

But that does not hinder each nation from ordering its own political affairs in its own way, and patriotism does not oppose or exclude Christian internationalism. The Fascist is the true internationalist, because he seeks above all to make his own nation an efficient, prosperous, and contented unit in the nations of the world. Britain, prosperous and well governed is far more likely to be beneficial to her neighbours, and far less likely to be anyone's enemy.

Moreover, Fascism teaches the necessity and importance of sacrifice in the interests of ones country. And the principle of sacrifice is the great foundation stone of the Christian religion.
